

GENERAL PERSHING AND HIS STAFF WARMLY WELCOMED ON ARRIVAL IN ENGLAND TODAY

Commander in Chief of Forces That Are to be Standard Bearers of United States in War for Civilization Met by Representatives of Admiralty, War Office and Municipal Authorities When Liner Docks at 9 O'clock This Morning; Voyage is Uneventful.

DESTROYERS ESCORT SHIP IN DANGER ZONE

A BRITISH PORT, June 8.—Major General Pershing and staff arrived this morning after an uneventful trip. All the members of his party were in good health and spirits. Their ship was escorted into port by American destroyers.

A hearty welcome was extended to the Americans by official representatives of the admiralty, the war office and the municipal authorities. The war office has assigned a brigadier general of the British army as aide to General Pershing. He took up his duties with the commander-in-chief as soon as the latter reached here.

The formal welcome of the Americans on the landing stage was a stirring scene. A guard of honor composed of Royal Welsh Fusiliers was drawn up at the landing with a regimental band. After General Pershing had been introduced to the military officer in command of the port he inspected the guard of honor while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

General Pershing said to the Associated Press:

"The trip has been delightful, particularly the latter stages when we were escorted through the danger zone by our own destroyers. Speaking for myself and my staff we are glad to be the standard bearers of America in this great war for civilization. The opportunity of landing at a British port and the welcome we received are very significant and are deeply appreciated. We expect in the course of a very short time to be playing our part, which I hope will be a very big part, on the western front."

General Pershing and his staff proceeded toward London. Before leaving the steamer he thanked the captain and crew for their courtesies during the voyage.

The British delegation which welcomed the Pershing party on board the deck of the liner consisted of Rear Admiral Slemmon, Lieutenant General Sir William Pitt Rivers, Campbell, and the lord mayor of Liverpool. The ship docked at 9 o'clock.

After the band had played the American national anthem it rendered "God Save the King," all present standing at the salute throughout.

The voyage was a quiet one. The time was devoted by General Pershing and his staff to hard work, with close concentration on the study of French by all the officers. During the trip there was a concert, at which General Pershing made an address. There was great enthusiasm on board when three American destroyers came up to act as escort.

128 MEN IN GENERAL PERSHING'S PARTY

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Major General Pershing, whose safe arrival in England is recorded in a dispatch from an English port, has with him 108 officers, enlisted men and other attaches. The party sailed more than a week ago without any publicity being given to their departure despite the fact that it was known to some American newspapers. Here again, as was the case with the French and British missions, the newspapers loyally cooperated with the government in a voluntary censorship to safeguard the passage of the officers.

GENERAL PERSHING IS WELCOMED IN LONDON

LONDON, June 8.—General Pershing arrived here this afternoon. He was welcomed by Walter Hodge, the American ambassador; Lord Derby, secretary of state for war; Viscount French, commanding the British home forces, and other officers, including Lord Brooke who will be attached to General Pershing's staff during his stay in England.

THREE MURDERED

Man and Wife and Their Daughter Found Dead Near Burned Barn.

FLYINGMONT, N. J., June 8.—William Queen, brother of United States Commissioner John W. Queen, wife and 22 year old daughter, were murdered at their home near here last night. The family was slain after the outbuilding of their home at Mount Pleasant had been set fire. The murderer escaped before neighbors, who discovered the fire, reached the farm. The body of the three victims had been riddled with shots and then an axe had been used.

The bodies of Queen and Mrs. Queen, fully dressed, were found near the barn. Miss Queen apparently had shot down as she ran from the house. Officials who were investigating the crime today said it appears that the outbuilding had been set fire, and when Queen and his wife ran out to rescue the horse they were killed. Neither the horse nor the axe were found.

FIVE ENLIST IN COMPANY D; FIFTEEN MORE ARE NEEDED

The turnout of applicants for enlistment in Company D for the medical examination at the armory last evening was not so heavy as Captain R. S. Morton expected and only five names were added to the roster. The total number of men in the company now is 135 and 15 more are needed. The recruits were, Thomas Daly and Carl Kriner, Connellsville; Edgar W. Jeffries, Percy; James O. Hannan, Lomont; Wilbur W. Nicklow, Mount Brookwood.

Two of the men enlisting are from Connellsville, Thomas Daly being a member of the paid fire department. This makes two employees of the municipal forces who will go with the Tenth, V. Bert Ritchie, a policeman, being a member of the hospital corps.

Papers for the discharge of one more man were received. First Class Private Frank Welmer of this city will be honorably discharged at once, his release being granted because of dependents.

On next Thursday afternoon, Company D and the hospital corps will take part in the Flag Day parade at Scottdale. Companies E of Mount Pleasant and I of Greensburg will also participate as will the machine gun company, also located at Mount Pleasant.

Captain R. S. Morton asks all the members of the company who can possibly get away for that day to report at the armory at noon so as to leave for Scottdale on the 1 o'clock street car. Ordinance will be issued for the occasion and the men will wear full olive drab uniforms with tan shoes.

A partial shipment of new clothing is expected by next Thursday so recruits may be fitted out to get in line. All members can procure collar ornaments.

There will be no drill next Monday night.

SAN SALVADOR REPORTED WIPED OUT BY VOLCANO

City of 60,000 Said to Have Been Totally Destroyed by Fire Following Eruption.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, June 8.—San Salvador, the capital of the republic of Salvador, with a population of more than 60,000, has been totally destroyed, according to a dispatch from San Miguel, Salvador. No details as to the manner in which the city was destroyed have been received but it undoubtedly was the result of an earthquake or volcanic eruption.

A dispatch from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, says that in addition to the wiping out of San Salvador, the towns of Quetzaltenango and Nepeza, Suchitoto, Paimal and Armentosa and Melicenses also were destroyed. Mojicanos was a suburb of San Salvador.

At 9:50 o'clock this morning there was no communication between San Salvador and Tegucigalpa.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Dispatches from American Minister Long at San Salvador sent at 9 o'clock last night while the volcano of San Salvador was erupting, said part of the city had been destroyed by fire but it was under control.

The dispatch said that about 6:35 P. M. yesterday severe earth shocks began and continued until about 8:45, with varying intensity. At about 8:45, the volcano of San Salvador began to belch forth fire and smoke, apparently on the side toward Quetzaltenango.

There was later on very severe shocks but the tremors of the earth continued with decreasing violence. At the same time there was a steady shower of dry ashes falling over the city.

The report says damage to the American legation building will render it uninhabitable but that all records are safe. It adds that all other city property is practically untenable. No deaths were reported in the minister's dispatch, as being known at that hour.

FRANCE EAGER TO SEE U. S. SOLDIERS, J. A. WALLACE WRITES

Local Man Now in Paris Says Expeditionary Force Would Have Good Effect.

France is highly pleased that America has joined in the war against Germany, according to a letter from J. A. Wallace, formerly of Connellsville but now located in Paris, to J. M. Doyle of Connellsville.

"France is very pleased that America has joined hands," he writes, "and the financial assistance America gives will certainly be appreciated, but they look for actual help and I pray America will soon send an expeditionary force, even though small, as it would make the morale in France much better."

Mr. Wallace states that he and Mrs. Wallace, whom he wedded within the last year, may soon return to America. Dr. Andre Salmon, husband of Miss Zita Wallace of Connellsville, is now located at Loxeville, in the Champagne district. He is in the French army medical corps. When the letter was written (May 12) Dr. Salmon was "on permission" and he and Mrs. Salmon were at Clenu sur lezard.

100 AMERICAN ARMY AVIATORS IN FRANCE

WASHINGTON, June 8.—One hundred American army aviators have arrived safely in France. They are prepared for any duty that may present itself, according to a statement issued today by Secretary Daniels. They are the first of the American fighting forces to reach France.

Claimed an Exemption.

The Courier is asked to state that Karl Kolbenberger, who registered in the Fifth ward, claimed an exemption because of being the sole support of his mother.

Major Thompson Thanks Courier For Assistance In Recruiting

The service, editorially and otherwise, which The Courier has rendered in behalf of recruiting Company D has been very highly appreciated by the officers of the Tenth regiment. In a letter to the managing editor, Major Joseph H. Thompson of Beaver Falls, commanding the battalion to which Company D is assigned, thus commends the assistance given by this paper:

My Dear Captain Gans: Captain Morton of Company D has been sending me several clippings from The Courier, and as major of the battalion, I want to thank you personally for your interest and cooperation. With such enthusiasm at home, and with the efficiency of Captain Morton, I have no doubt for the future of Company D.

VERDICT OF SECOND DEGREE MURDER IS FOUND AGAINST ADAM

Whitsett Hungarian Convicted of Charge of Burning Mrs. Sekras to Death.

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, June 8.—John Adam, a Hungarian of Whitsett, was found guilty of second degree murder at 12:40 o'clock this morning for the cremation of Mrs. Theresa Sekras, wife of George Sekras, at house No. 82, Whitsett, on the night of last April 22. The jury retired at 9:21 o'clock this morning after Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen before whom the case was tried delivered his charge. The arguments of counsel were presented to the jury when the defense closed its case late yesterday.

Adam was convicted upon the testimony of George Sekras, Jr., eight years old, who testified that he saw Adam, who was a boarder at the Sekras home, pour oil on the clothing of his mother who was sleeping and ignite the clothing with a match in two places. The attorneys for the defense, S. Ray Shelby and John Duggan, Jr., were unable to shake the child's testimony. Adam on the witness stand denied that he set the woman's clothes afire, but said that he came into the house and found her burning and attempted three times to extinguish the fire. He testified that she drove him away.

Mrs. Sekras died in the Cottage State hospital, Connellsville, on Monday, April 23.

RINGS IN ICE CREAM

School Girls Found Valuables in Their Sundae.

That valuable diamond and ruby rings are not usually given as prizes with every ice cream sundae, was checked at the B. K. Leaver's ice cream parlor at Vanderbilt is the belief of Miss Elizabeth Crawford, and Miss Ruby Bush of Dawson, students at the Dunbar township high school.

Miss Bush and Miss Crawford on their way home from school last evening stopped in the ice cream parlor for an ice cream sundae, and just as they had about completed eating it, Miss Bush found a diamond ring in her cream, while a ruby ring was discovered by Miss Crawford in her dish.

Realizing the value of the rings, and knowing they were not given as prizes, the girls promptly turned them over to the clerk, Miss Pauline Johnson, who claimed the valuables, stating that they must have fallen from the counter into the ice cream freezer. She was very grateful to the girls for their honesty.

TO ADOPT JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PLAN HERE NEXT TERM

School System Will Be Divided Into Two Periods of Six Years Each.

MEANS SOME BIG CHANGES

All Pupils From Seventh Grade Up Will Attend High School Building; Four Courses Will Be Open to Seventh and Eighth Grade Pupils.

With the beginning of the coming school term in September, the new and radically different Junior high school plan will go into effect. The school system of Connellsville will be divided into two periods, the first six years, or all of the pupils from grades 1 to 6, being known as the elementary schools, and the pupils from grades 7 to 12 being known as the high school. The first class will attend grade schools as usual. The second will attend the new high school building.

The present seventh and eighth grade teachers will likely be transferred to the new high school to teach subjects such as arithmetic and English to the first two classes of the new six year course. Regular high school specialists will be in charge of the teaching of languages to the younger pupils.

Under the new system four courses will be offered to the pupils of the Seventh and Eighth grades; the German course, the English course, the Latin course, and the Commercial course. The English course, providing a thorough ground work for subjects to be taken in later years, but without preliminary work in any language, is recommended by the high school authorities, who expect most of the pupils to select this course. The Latin course gives an opportunity for an early start to those who expect to follow up the studies of the ancient languages, and who wish to take more than four years of Latin. The German course gives a similar early start to those wishing to specialize in modern languages. In the English course, literature takes the place of the language study. Otherwise the branches taught in these three courses are the same. The Commercial course is provided for those who can attend high school only two or three years. It is not preparatory to the regular commercial course leading to graduation, and is not to be taken by those expecting to enter the regular commercial department in later years.

Before electing the commercial course it will be necessary for the pupils' parents to consult the principal of the high school, since certain conditions must exist before a pupil can be allowed to take the course.

The curriculum in the last four years of the high school course will remain practically the same as before. Under the new system, there will be a teacher for each subject in the first two years as in the last four. The names of the classes, Freshman, Sophomore, Juniors and Seniors, will likely be dropped, and the six numbers used instead. In other schools where the six-year course is in vogue, the Junior and Senior have survived with the others dying out. The boys of the first two classes will not be eligible for any athletic teams.

The first plan had been to have a Junior high school, consisting of Grades 7, 8 and 9, and a Senior high school, of Grades 10, 11 and 12. The two schools would have been entirely separate. This plan has not worked out so well in other cities, the school authorities found, and they decided to combine the six years into the high school.

The present high school will be used as the Fourth ward grade school from the beginning of next term. Members of classes from the First and Sixth grades, inclusive, residing in the Fourth ward district will attend this building. Seventh and Eighth grade pupils from all over the city will go to the new high school building.

DEAL CLOSED.

Transfer of Indian Creek Valley Stock to be Consummated.

The $840,000 deal for 1,400 of the 2,800 shares of stock in the Indian Creek Valley railroad was closed up last night when the D. B. Zimmerman interests passed over the money to the Stauffer interests. The stock has not been actually transferred as yet, however, since a meeting of the old board was held last night.

The old directors will meet once more in the near future, and those who have sold out will present their resignations from the board at that time. Reorganization will follow shortly after this, it is expected.

Change in Office Hours.

The West Penn office hours electric light bills may be paid will be open from 8 to 12 in the morning and from 1 to 5:30 in the evening, instead of from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. as at present, beginning July 1. The office will be open only on one evening, the evening of the last discount day, when bills may be paid between 5 and 9 o'clock P. M.

WISE ECONOMY

"The best is always the cheapest in the long run." You've often heard that remark—and it's especially true in buying Furniture.

Cheapness in quality is very expensive in the end. That is if you buy Furniture of inferior quality and workmanship—for which you may probably pay a little less—it will last but a fraction of the time that reliable Furniture will, made of good materials by expert workmen.

Aaron's always offer you Furniture that is of the best quality and workmanship—that has an enduring value and will give satisfaction. Back of every purchase you make here stands Aaron's "satisfaction guarantee."

And it's Aaron's large buying-power that enables you to buy reliable Furniture—that will last a lifetime—at no greater cost than you are asked to pay for cheaply made Furniture.

Therefore, it's wise economy to purchase at Aaron's—Connellsville's Reliable Furniture Store.

A Cheap Refrigerator is Dangerous

Your ice bill and your doctor bill are closely related. One of the greatest Summer problems for the housewife is proper refrigeration of all foods. In warm weather deterioration quickly sets in—it is unsafe to use foods not kept cold before preparing. To keep cold is not enough, however. Even in many refrigerators there lurks danger in the wood linings, or in the rusty metal linings. That is why we say a cheap refrigerator is dangerous.

HOW SHALL WE PAY FOR THE WAR?

A Constructive Criticism on the House Revenue Bill.

LOANS BETTER THAN TAXES

Five Reasons Why Excessive Taxes at the Outset of War Are Disadvantageous—Great Britain Example Worthy of Emulation—How the Taxes Should Be Apportioned.

By EDWIN R. A. SELIGMAN,
Member of the House of Representatives.

On May 23, 1917, the House of Representatives passed the bill to provide revenue to defray war expenses and for other purposes. In the original bill as presented by the Committee on Ways and Means, the additional revenue to be derived was estimated at $1,810,129,000. The amendment to the income tax, which was tacked on to the bill during the discussion in the House, was expected to yield another $10,000,000 of $30,000,000.

In discussing the House bill, two problems arise:

(1) How much should be raised by taxation?

(2) In what manner should this sum be raised?

How Much Should Be Raised by Taxation?

How was the figure of $1,800,000,000 arrived at? The answer is simple. When the Secretary of the Treasury came to estimate the additional war expenses for the year 1917-18, he calculated that they would amount to some $3,000,000,000, of which $3,000,000,000 was to be allotted to the allies, and $3,000,000,000 was to be utilized for the domestic purposes. "Thinking" that it would be a fair proposition to divide this latter sum between loans and taxes, he concluded that the amount to be raised by taxes was $1,800,000,000.

There are two extreme theories, each of which may be discarded with scant courtesy. The one is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by loans, and the other is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by taxes. Each theory is untenable.

It is indeed true that the burden of the war should be borne by the present rather than the future generation; but this does not mean that they should be borne by this year's taxation.

Meeting all war expenses by taxation makes the taxpayers in one or two years bear the burden of benefits that ought to be distributed at least over a decade within the same generation.

In the second place, when expenditures approach the gigantic sums of present-day warfare, the tax-only policy would require more than the total surplus of social income. Were this absolutely necessary, the ensuing havoc in the economic life of the community would have to be endured. But where the disaster is so great and at the same time so unnecessary, the tax-only policy may be declared impracticable.

Secretary McAdoo had the right instinct and highly commendable courage in deciding that a substantial portion, at least, of the revenues should be derived from taxation. But when he hit upon the plan of 60-30 per cent, that is, of raising one-third of all the needed war expenditures by taxes, the question arises whether he did not go too far.

The relative proportion of loans to taxes is after all a purely business proposition. Not to rely to a large extent on loans at the outset of a war is a mistake.

Disadvantages of Excessive Taxes.

The disadvantages of excessive taxes at the outset of the war are as follows:

1. Excessive taxes on consumption will cause popular resentment.

2. Excessive taxes on industry will disarrange business, damp enthusiasm and restrict the spirit of enterprise at the very time when the opposite is needed.

3. Excessive taxes on incomes will deplete the surplus available for investments and interfere with the placing of the enormous loans which will be necessary in any event.

4. Excessive taxes on wealth will cause a serious diminution of the incomes which are at present largely drawn upon for the support of educational and philanthropic enterprises. Moreover, these sources of support would be dried up precisely at the time when the need would be greatest.

5. Excessive taxation at the outset of the war will reduce the money available for the increasing demands that are soon to come.

Great Britain's Policy.

Take Great Britain as an example. During the first year of the war she increased taxes only slightly, in order to keep industries going at top speed. During the second year she raised by new taxes only 5 per cent of her war expenditures. During the third year she levied an additional 10 per cent (over and above the pre-war level) only slightly more than 17 per cent of her war expenses.

If we should attempt to do as much in the first year of the war as Great Britain did in the third year it would suffice to raise by taxation $1,200,000,000. If, in order to be absolutely on the safe side, it seemed advisable to increase the sum to $1,500,000,000, this should, in our opinion, be the maximum.

In considering the apportionment of the extraordinary burden of taxes in war times certain scientific principles are definitely established:

How Taxes Should Be Apportioned.

(1) The burden of taxes must be spread as far as possible over the whole community so as to cause each individual to share in the sacrifice according to his ability to pay and according to his share in the Government.

(2) Taxes on consumption, which are necessarily borne by the community at large, should be imposed as far as possible on articles of non-luxury rather than on those of necessity.

(3) Excesses should be imposed as far as possible upon commodities in the hands of the final consumer rather than upon the articles which serve primarily as raw material for further production.

(4) Taxes upon business should be imposed as far as possible upon net earnings rather than upon gross receipts or capital invested.

(5) Taxes upon income which will necessarily be severe should be both differentiated and graduated. That is, there should be a distinction between earned and unearned incomes and there should be a higher rate upon the larger incomes. It is essential, however, not to make the income rate so excessive as to lead to evasion, administrative difficulties, or to the more fundamental objections which have been urged above.

(6) The excess profits which are due to the war constitute the most obvious and reasonable source of revenue during war times. But the principle upon which these war-profit taxes are laid must be equitable in theory and easily calculable in practice.

The Proposed Income Tax.

The additional income tax as passed by the House runs up to a rate of 60 per cent. This is a sum unheard of in the history of civilized society. It must be remembered that it was only after the first year of the war that Great Britain increased her income tax to the maximum of 34 per cent, and that even in the fourth year of the war the income tax does not exceed 42 1/2 per cent.

It could easily be shown that a tax with rates on moderate incomes substantially less than in Great Britain, and on the larger incomes about as high, would yield only slightly less than the $332,000,000 originally estimated in the House bill.

It is to be hoped that the Senate will reduce the total rate on the highest incomes to 34 per cent, or at most to 40 per cent, and that at the same time it will reduce the rate on the smaller incomes derived from personal or professional earnings.

If the war continues we shall have to depend more and more upon the income tax. By imposing excessive rates now we are not only endangering the future, but are inviting all manner of difficulties which even Great Britain has been able to escape.

Conclusion.

The House bill contains other fundamental defects which may be summed up as follows:

(1) It pursues an erroneous principle in imposing retroactive taxes.

(2) It selects an unjust and unworkable criterion for the excess-profits tax.

(3) It proceeds to an unheard-of height in the income tax.

(4) It imposes unwarranted burdens upon the consumption of the community.

(5) It is calculated to throw business into confusion by levying taxes on gross receipts instead of upon commodities.

(6) It fails to make a proper use of stamp taxes.

(7) It follows an unsound system in that rate on imports.

(8) It includes a multiplicity of petty and unscientific taxes, the vexatiousness of which is out of all proportion to the revenue they produce.

The fundamental lines on which the House bill should be modified are summarized here:

(1) The amount of new taxation should be limited to $1,500,000,000—or at the outset to $1,200,000,000. To do more than this would be as unwise as it is unnecessary. To do even this would be to do more than has ever been done by any civilized Government in time of stress.

(2) The excess-profits tax based upon a sound system ought to yield about $300,000,000.

(3) The income-tax schedule ought to be revised with a lowering of the rates on earned incomes below $10,000, and with an analogous lowering of the rates on the higher incomes, so as not to exceed 34 per cent. A careful calculation shows that an income tax of this kind would yield some $450,000,000 additional.

(4) The tax on whisky and tobacco ought to contain approximately as it is, with a yield of about $250,000,000.

These three taxes, together with the stamp tax at even the low rate of the House bill, and with an improved automobile tax, will yield over $1,250,000,000, which is the amount of money thought desirable.

The above program would be in harmony with an approved scientific system. It will save with almost all of the complaints that are being urged against the present. It will refrain from taxing the consumption of the poor.

It will throw a far heavier burden upon the rich, but will not go to the extremes of confiscation. It will obviate interference with business and will keep unimpaired the social productivity of the community.

It will establish a just balance between loans and taxes and will not succumb to the danger of approaching either the tax-only policy or the loan-only policy. Above all, it will keep an undisturbed elastic margin, which must be more and more heavily drawn upon as the war proceeds.

the Critical Period.

Lowell, Mass.—"For the last three years I have been troubled with the Change of Life and the bad feelings common at that time. I was in a very nervous condition, with headaches and pain a good deal of the time so I was unfit to do my work. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did, and it has helped me in every way. I am not nearly so nervous, no headaches or pain. I must say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy any sick woman can take."

THE DIMINISHING PETROLEUM SUPPLY A SERIOUS PROBLEM

Increase in Use of Gasoline and Automobiles is The Cause.

A PUZZLING PROBLEM

Reduction of Crude Petroleum is Not Increasing as Rapidly as the Consumption of Gasoline; Other Sources of Supply to be Utilized.

In an address a few days ago on "The Petroleum and Gasoline Situation," Van H. Manning, director United States Bureau of Mines gave some surprising information in relation to the supply of these liquid fuels. He pointed out that in the year 1916 there were 2,760,000 automobiles or an increase over the year 1910 of 2,350.

The increased number of automobiles in 1916 used 1,000,000,000 more gallons of gasoline, or 25,000,000 barrels more than the automobiles in 1910.

This increased use of gasoline for the increased number of automobiles alone represented a little more than half of the total output of gasoline in the country in 1916 for all purposes, the total production being about 54,000,000 barrels. As the number of automobiles is increasing with each day, there is a tremendous problem in this feature alone.

The total gasoline engine horsepower built and sold in the United States in 1913, according to the Federal Trade Commission, was 11,300,000, and in 1916 the output had a little more than doubled, the figures being 24,500,000. These figures indicate the increased use of gasoline power more clearly than those which cover only the automobiles, as these include all types of gasoline-driven machines which have been developed and increased in a way no less surprising than that of the automobile itself.

The apparently unsolvable puzzle about this is that while we have been increasing our production of gasoline, the production of automobiles has increased 200 per cent, above the increase in gasoline production. These are the facts that we must face.

Statistics indicate that of the gasoline produced in the United States, between 55 and 60 per cent, is used in the automobiles of the country; 20 to 25 per cent, is exported, and the balance is used in stationary engines, in motor-boats, tractors and for various purposes. There seems no reason to believe that the call for gasoline will in any way be reduced; in fact, a much larger demand seems imminent.

The production of gasoline depends upon our supply of petroleum. Petroleum and its products have become essential to our very existence. During the last few months our increased consumption has made it necessary to draw oil from this storage, which has convinced many people that our present supply has reached a point where it may not be sufficient to fill the demand placed upon it, unless some radical steps are taken to conserve its use.

In the year 1916 the marketed production of crude petroleum was, according to the estimate of the United States Geological Survey, 205,000,000 barrels. The stocks held by various pipe-line and transportation companies at the end of January, 1917, amounted to approximately 170,000,000 barrels; at the end of 1916 the stocks amounted to 150,000,000 barrels, while representing a decline of 20,000,000 barrels, even in the face of our greatest annual marketed production of 205,000,000 barrels.

If consumption of crude petroleum exceeds production, the difference must be drawn from storage. The question that naturally presents itself here is, What of the future? During 1916 the normal consumption of crude petroleum was 12 per cent, greater than in 1915, and that year our consumption exceeded the 1915 consumption by 13 per cent. Extrapolating that the normal peace consumption for this year will increase at the same rate, or 13 per cent, our consumption for 1917 will exceed that for 1916 by about 40,000,000 barrels.

This does not take into consideration the increased demand for petroleum and its products due to the entrance of this country into the war. If the normal and war demands for petroleum can be filled, the difference between the estimated production and consumption during this year will amount to probably as much as 60,000,000 barrels, an amount which must be drawn out of storage. With only about 150,000,000 barrels of crude petroleum in storage at the first of the year, and with the prospect of it becoming necessary to draw from that reserve probably 60,000,000 barrels to fill that demand, it becomes apparent that some steps must be taken to meet the situation.

The fact we must face is that the production of petroleum is not increasing as rapidly as the production and consumption of gasoline. The petroleum in time will reach its maximum production and start to decline. What we are doing now is looking to more efficient methods of production from oil sands, the production of more gasoline by the so-called cracking process, the extraction of oil from natural gas and the utilization of liquid fuels from other than petroleum bases.

The treatment of natural gas by compression, refrigeration and absorption produced 50,000,000 gallons of gasoline of such low boiling point that it was mixed with equal parts of naphtha to form 120,000,000 gallons of good motor fuel.

Substitutes for gasoline, such as the products of the distillation of coal, are being used at present in Europe for motor fuels, and may in time be used for that purpose in this country, as many by-product coke ovens are now being constructed.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE LONESOME CHAP"—A live reel feature-Paramount production starring House Peters and dainty little Louise Huff, is a great attraction today. The production is so wholesome and entertaining that it is impossible to resist its charm. Daddy Longlegs, is only one of the Lonesome Chap's many brothers, but this version of the familiar story is told with such simplicity and naturalness, and the little girl and big fellow she loves are both so likeable that to watch the plot unfold is like going back to some clear spring in the woods for another drink of refreshing water. You remember how the little orphan girl finds a friend in the big hearted chap, and, after she grows up to be a beautiful young woman keeps on adoring her benefactor, who just won't see that she's as much in love with him as he is with her, and gets to feeling awful lonesome until she takes matters into her own hands and shows him what a big stupid he has been. The production is peculiarly beautiful and Miss Huff and Mr. Peters are surrounded by an excellent cast. The thrilling interiors of the mine in the production were taken seven hundred feet below the surface of the ground in one of the largest mines in California. Tomorrow, Euld Bennett, the Triangle star, will appear in "Happiness," a five part photo play. Monday, Lionel Barrymore will be seen in "The Millionaire's Double," a Metro production. Thursday, June 21, Ethel Barrymore will be starred in "The Call of Her People."

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE SECRET KINGDOM" NO. 2, featuring Dorothy Kelley and Charles Richman, will be shown today. "The Count," a two reel comedy with Charles Chaplin. Tomorrow Robert Warwick and June Elvidge in "The Family Honor." World Pictures Brady-Made in presenting "The Family Honor," presents a picture of wonderful entertainment and power. The story is pleasing and interesting and shows the stars, Robert Warwick and June Elvidge, in parts that will make thousands of new friends for them. Mr. Warwick, especially, has a powerful and pleasing part. The supporting cast is little less than notable.

THE ARCADE.

At the Arcade today and tomorrow Arthur Hawk's Sunshine Girls will present a one act musical comedy, a satire on real estate speculation, entitled "W. W. Fust & Co." The plot is only to serve as a background for some excellent singing and dancing and numbers by the first class band to be heard in Connellsville. Jazz bands are so new that they are just becoming a rage in New York. These men are real artists and Hawk's Sunshine Girls company is one of the few musical comedy companies in which the male members of the company are stars of equal rank. This show is different from the average tabloid musical comedy. It is a first grade Lyceum and Chautauque musical comedy, surrounded by a pretty chorus of sweet singers, drilled by a master of stagecraft. Hawk's Sunshine Girls put up a show that is full of ginger every second the curtain is up. Maria Sals is the screen star and Ham and Bud are also on deck.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"IN AGAIN—OUT AGAIN"—A six reel Artercraft production featuring Douglas Fairbanks, will be shown today and tomorrow. A typical Fairbanks picture. "In Again—Out Again," presents the smiling actor at his best in a subject of rapid-fire theme and hundreds of hearty laughs. Never before has the athletic one had a better opportunity to give his admirers so much of his infatigable self and various surprises are in store for his many friends. Supported by Arline Pretty, the popular screen actress and an equally efficient cast including Arnold Lucy, Helen Greene, Homer Hunt, Walter Walker, Albert Parker, "Bull" Montana and others of stellar popularity Fairbanks is given capable assistance in the presentation of the plot.

EXAMINERS' REPORT FORECASTS WINNING OF CONNELLSVILLE COAL TARIFF ASSOCIATION'S FIGHT FOR LOWER WESTBOUND RATE ON COAL

Recommend New Tariffs to Valleys and Cleveland Not to Exceed 6 Cents Per Ton Over Pittsburg Rates and Same Rate as Pittsburg to Points West of Cleveland; Final Argument June 14 Indicates an Early Decision; Abstract of Attorney Andrade's Very Comprehensive Brief.

Present indications are that the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association will win its fight for the removal of the differential against the Connellsville district on coal freight rates westbound; perhaps not so completely as it won the fight for the Westmoreland rate eastbound, but in all the essential particulars. This is forecast in a report filed last Friday by Examiners Marshall and King of the Interstate Commerce Commission in which it was recommended that the rate on Connellsville coal to the Valleys and Cleveland be not more than six cents per ton over the Pittsburg rate, and flat shipments from the Connellsville region to points west of a line drawn from Sandusky to Canton, take the Pittsburg rate, differential against Connellsville district being entirely removed. It is also recommended that the differential on Lake Cargo coal between the Connellsville and Pittsburg districts be reduced from twelve to five cents per ton. In the same report the proposed advances of 15 cents, making the differential between West Virginia and Ohio coal 40 cents instead of 25 cents, was recommended.

The importance of the case presented by the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association, as the examiners viewed it, is revealed by the fact that they devoted over ten pages of their report to the contentions raised. After an exhaustive study of the case the examiners summarized their findings as follows:

"Considering the relatively shorter hauls from the Pittsburg district to the Valleys and Cleveland than from the Connellsville district, the respondents should not be required to extend the Pittsburg rate to the Connellsville district 41 to 45 miles farther distant. We find, however, that the present differential of 15 cents is unduly discriminatory and unduly prejudicial to the Connellsville district and unduly preferential to the Pittsburg district to the extent that the rates to Youngstown, Cleveland, and other Ohio points in affected territory east of the Sandusky-Canton line exceed by more than 8 cents per ton the rates contemporaneously maintained from the Pittsburg district to the same points. In respect of rates from the Connellsville district to Ohio points in affected territory west of the Sandusky-Canton line and to all other equidistant points in central freight association territory, we find that any rates from the Connellsville district are and for the future will be unjustly discriminatory and unduly prejudicial to the Connellsville district."

June 14 has been fixed as the date for the final argument in what has become known as the "Commercial Coal Case," in connection with which the report of Examiners Marshall and King has been filed. The report is subject to the approval by the commission in the form submitted or as the commission may revise it. The fact that so early a date has been fixed for the final argument is taken as an indication favoring an early decision in these cases, as well as indicating that the differentials involved will be decided upon their merits and irrespective of the proposed horizontal increase in freight rates. The report of the examiners is held to be a brilliant campaign during which more than a year past, will have accomplished substantially all that it was fighting for on westbound rates and the complete removal of the differential eastbound.

The "Commercial Coal Case" had its origin in the filing of schedules providing for a general increase in the per ton rates on bituminous coal in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky to consuming points in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin. The railroad, following the usual schedule, were the Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington, West Jersey & Seaboard, Pittsburg & Lake Erie, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, Wabash, Pittsburg Terminal, West Side Belt, Western Maryland, Bessemer & Lake Erie, and the Kanawha & Michigan.

Protests against the proposed advance were filed by the Public Service Commission of West Virginia, West Virginia Coal Operators' Association, the Pittsburg Coal Operators' Association and others. By order of the Interstate Commerce Commission dated January 4, 1916 the operation of the proposed schedules was suspended until May 15, 1916, at which time the suspensions were continued pending a determination of the case. The reasonableness of certain of the present rates it is proposed to cancel by the suspended schedules was attacked and a number of cases are now pending before the commission involving consideration of the entire rate structure on bituminous coal from the West Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee origin groups to the central freight association territory.

The Connellsville Coal Tariff Association filed a petition of intervention and has been permitted to bring up for adjudication the propriety of the differentials now existing between the Connellsville district on the one hand, and the Pittsburg, Westmoreland and Greensburg districts on the other hand. Exhaustive hearings were had before examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission at which C. Andrade, Jr., of New York, appeared as attorney for the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association. W. E. Fohl, the Pittsburg mining engineer, was the expert witness on behalf of the association upon matters relating to the coal deposits, properties and uses, the production and uses of coke, development of the by-product industry and statistics. J. P. Muller, accountant in charge of the rate case department of Marwick, Mitchell, Peat & Company, Washington, D. C., presented elaborate exhibits, including a series of maps prepared by B. F. Hoffacker, of Pittsburg, to illustrate the disparities of the rates from the several districts.

In all the brief for the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association as intervenor, Attorney Andrade gives a very comprehensive review of the case and the testimony offered by the association's witnesses. The Interstate Commerce Commission is requested to find the following facts:

1. The existing westbound differential of 15 cents a ton against the Connellsville district, and in favor of the Pittsburg, Westmoreland and Greensburg districts, is unjust and unreasonable.
2. The present Connellsville, Pittsburg, Westmoreland and Greensburg districts should be consolidated into one district taking the same rate west on bituminous coal shipments.
3. In his argument Attorney Andrade states as a general proposition that the intervenors "favor rates which will properly reimburse the carriers, but we advance no views whatever on the subject of the absolute rate level per se, as our entire case is a matter of differentials between the Connellsville district on the one hand and the Pittsburg, Westmoreland and Greensburg districts on the other hand."
4. The Connellsville Coal Tariff Association has a substantial interest in this case because its constituent companies have an output of 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 tons of coal out of the 30,000,000 tons produced annually by the entire Connellsville district. From 1870 until quite recently Connellsville coal has been used exclusively in the manufacture of beehive coke. In the Lake Cargo Case Mr. Griggs, the leading witness for the railroads testified that "There really never was any demand for raw coal out of the Connellsville region, coal because they did not want to ship any; they wanted to make it all into coke."
5. "On account of the increase in by-product coke production," Mr. Andrade says, "the Connellsville region will change rapidly from coke to a coal shipping district when the present abnormal business activity ceases. Of course, everyone understands that just present the unparalleled economic conditions induced by the European war have temporarily created an artificial demand for all the natural resources of America, including coal and coke. It is necessary to indicate that these transitory and abnormal conditions can create no just basis for argument as to what should be the permanent form of this rate structure.

"For some time the by-product ovens have been using mixtures of other coals which do not make satisfactory beehive coke, but which, when used in by-product ovens, make coke that is equal for metallurgical purposes to Connellsville beehive coke. By-product coke, manufactured a long distance from the coal mines, is fast displacing beehive coke from the Connellsville region. By-product coke production shows a steady increase even in periods of business depression while at such times beehive production diminishes materially. By-product coke will inevitably replace beehive coke, because the beehive process is wasteful. On a production of coke worth $30,000,000 there is a waste of $35,000,000 by reason of the failure to recover the by-products."

Mr. Andrade quoted freely from the testimony of Mr. Fohl, and also from the report of C. E. Leach, of the United States Geological Survey, to show the marked increase in the value of by-products recovered in making coke by that process and the growing importance and value of these products in the manufacture of munitions, fertilizers and other purposes.

"It is thus clearly established," says Mr. Andrade, "that the change from beehive oven production to by-product oven production is an economic necessity, and that it is impossible ever to have a return to the old beehive method. It is not practicable to replace the beehive ovens with by-product ovens located near the mines. Neither is it practicable to divert the production of the Connellsville region into the fuel trade because Connellsville coal is not suitable for steam coal. The result is that the Connellsville region must cease the manufacture and shipment of coke and must begin the shipment of by-product coal."

Referring to the fact that there has been no material change in the geographical groupings or differentials of the Greensburg, Westmoreland, Pittsburg and Connellsville districts since 1901, and to the statement of witness Griggs in the Lake Cargo Case that "Sometimes when you consider these groups of origin have been established twenty years or so, it is pretty hard to tell what the reasons were at the time," Mr. Andrade observes:

"We have here a situation which is most unusual. The leading coke producing district of the nation—a district which has held the lead from 1870 almost to the present moment—is suddenly confronted with an abrupt economic change. For half a century the coal rates have been of no interest to the operators of the Connellsville district for the reason that it did not ship any material amount of raw coal. And it is for this reason alone that the unjust and unreasonable differentials on coal have been permitted to exist so long. They were mere paper rates, and practically nothing moved under them. This case, then, is not ruled by the maxim that rates long in existence are presumed to be reasonable."

Calling attention to the evidence establishing the fact that the Connellsville district now has a 15-cent differential against it and in favor of Pittsburg, Westmoreland and Greensburg districts, it is noted that, "In connection with the Greensburg district, it will be observed that there is a curious inversion of the usual traffic situation. It so happens that the Greensburg district is served by only one carrier, the Pennsylvania railroad. Now as a usual thing, when a district is served by only one carrier, the rates are somewhat higher than where several carriers compete for the business. But in the case of the Greensburg district the rates do not build good, that district being more favored than her neighbors, Connellsville, Pittsburg and Westmoreland districts which are served by more than one railroad."

Since the testimony in this case was taken the Pennsylvania railroad has taken a tariff which gives the Connellsville district and part of the Pittsburg district the Westmoreland rate on coal shipments eastbound. "This circumstance," says Mr. Andrade, "is no wise modification of the view which has been advanced by the Con-

Judge John Barborat of Ft. Lorain, Ohio, knows it. He was walking with crutches; today he is well. It should do as much for you; it seldom fails.—Adv.

Connellsville interests from the very beginning of this case, and which was advanced by them in the case before the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, to the effect that Pittsburg, Westmoreland, Greensburg and Connellsville districts should form one district, all taking the same rate east and the same rate west.

Attention is directed to the fact that the attorneys and witnesses for the Pittsburg Coal Operators' Association, in the proceedings before the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, admitted the validity of the principle that where one of two districts has a differential against it in one direction, it should have a corresponding preferential in another direction. If, Mr. Large, coal and coke agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, in the same proceedings, testified that the eastbound rate situation in the Connellsville district needed revision.

The leading witness for the railroads cited the Pittsburg-Fairmont-Kanawha-Thacker-Kentucky-Tennessee district as one origin group in the matter of determining rates by the standard of mileage and mills per ton mile, enunciating the principle that any change in the rate from one point in the group will automatically operate to make a like change from other parts of the group, and as well to other destinations. Adopting the railroads' method of treatment, as thus laid down, Attorney Andrade contends that the question before the Interstate Commerce Commission in this case is "Whether or not Connellsville should be included in this great origin group."

Taking the railroads' own figures for the distance it is found that the Connellsville mileage averages less than the mileage from the great Pittsburg-Fairmont-Kanawha-Thacker-Kentucky-Tennessee origin group. Therefore, on the railroads' own theory of this rate structure, and the railroads' own mileage figures, the Connellsville district is clearly entitled to be made a part of the great origin group which begins with Pittsburg and ends with the Kentucky-Tennessee mines.

The remedy for the existing condition, it is held, is "to consolidate the Connellsville, Pittsburg, Westmoreland and Greensburg districts into one district, with a uniform rate east and west." The reasons set forth are: "Geologically, physically and chemically the Connellsville district belongs with Pittsburg; the consolidation of the districts would not materially lengthen the Pittsburg haul; the proposed consolidated district would not be abnormally large, and would compare favorably in area with other origin groups; the general rate structure will not be affected by the change, which we propose; the change in rate grouping will not entail any loss to the carriers; by-product coal offers much greater continuity of traffic than coke."

In support of the last mentioned reason it is held to be "not merely an economic theory, but a fact. In 1914 about 50 per cent of the beehive ovens were out of blast, whereas only a trifle over 10 per cent of the by-product ovens were closed down during the same period. In hauling coke some of the carriers bring back empty coke cars on the return haul, because coke cars are unsuited for other commodities, whereas in hauling coal, the return car is generally loaded. Furthermore, the by-products recovered by the by-product plants are themselves a source of further revenue as they take very high freight rates."

Quotations from the record in the Lake Cargo Case are given to establish the fact that the Pittsburg coal operators concede that the Connellsville district should be in the Pittsburg district, and similarly from the case before the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission to show that the Westmoreland and Cleveland coal operators do not object to a consoli-

LOCAL BOARDS TO PASS UPON DRAFT EXEMPTION CLAIMS

Married Men Not to be Excluded Except as Individuals, Appeal to Board of Review Possible.

Special to The Courier
WASHINGTON, June 8.—Local boards will pass upon claims to exemption from military service under the conscription law. Each of these boards will be appointed for approximately each 30,000 population. A statement issued by the provost general's office states:

"There will be a local exemption board for approximately each 30,000 population. These boards will have to do especially with self-executing exemptions that is those in which exemption depends only upon the determination of facts as, for example, whether a man is a federal, state or judicial officer, whether he is a clergyman or whether he comes within any classification for which exemption is specifically provided in the selective service law."

In each federal judicial district there will be at least one board of review to which appeal may be taken from local boards and which will have also original jurisdiction in the exclusion or discharge from the selective draft of persons engaged in industry, including agriculture found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency."

Provost Marshal General Crowder issued this statement. "Some published press reports are to the effect, and figures received in the office of the provost marshal general indicate millions of claims for exemption. These reports consist of conclusions erroneously drawn and very unjust to the young men of the country. As a matter of fact no claims whatever have been called for or received."

Registration cards contain some questions that were asked solely for statistical reasons. The answers to those questions are tabulated in such a way as to show how many registered men are executive, judicial or legislative officers of the state or nation, how many have wives or other relatives dependent upon them for support, how many are totally disabled and how many belong to religious sects opposed to war in any form or are ordained ministers or are engaged in certain industries. "Absolutely no statistics of this kind were extant before the registration and such statistics were necessary in drafting regulations. There is no index of the number of exemptions that will be claimed."

In regard to the married men Secretary of War Baker said it was not the purpose of the department to exempt married men as a class but that individual cases would be dealt with on their merits.

CIRCUS NEGLIGENT IN ERECTING TENT. IS JURY'S VERDICT

Barnum & Bailey Top, Which Collapsed, Injuring Man, Found to Have Been Poorly Put Up.

A coroner's jury, inquiring into the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, the circus disaster at Uniontown, when the Barnum & Bailey tent blew over, found that she had died of heart failure superinduced by fright from the collapse of the tent and further held that the circus owners were negligent in the proper erection of the main circus tent.

The responsibility was placed on the owners of the circus upon a deposition taken by Coroner S. H. Baim last Saturday from Harry Williams, a carman of the circus. Williams declared that the big top which collapsed with fatal injuries to one and serious injuries to many others had been erected hurriedly, without a safety rope. Williams further said that the crowd was admitted to the main tent before it was up securely. The wind which blew the tent over was testified to have been no storm at all but just a little wind.

If the tent were properly put up and all the guys properly fastened would a storm affect it? he was asked.

It would have no effect on the tent at all was the reply.

Williams said the ropes were all loose and there was only one guy rope on and that guy rope had never been guyed out the second time. The ropes were thus slack and when the safety ropes were weakened loose the tent swayed three or four times then pulled the stakes up. The stakes were driven in securely he said but the swaying of the tent pulled them out. It had too much play.

Following the inquest District Attorney S. J. Morrow said he did not know what action his office would take in the matter. It is likely, however that leave will be asked of the court to present the coroner's jury's finding to the grand jury. If this is done an indictment might be returned against the tent superintendent and against the owners of the circus on charges of manslaughter.

CHAPTER XI

The chief sent for Boroday early the next morning.
"You've turned the trick all right," he said, smiling.
Boroday, as immaculate as ever, settled his tie.
"Yes."
"Sit down," said the chief. "Now that you know you're going I suppose you're not in any particular hurry."
Boroday ran his hand over his silky beard.

"I should like to get to a barber," said the chief, when Boroday was comfortably settled and smoking one of his eternal Russian cigarettes. "I wish you would tell me why you disposed of that pearl the way you did. It wasn't quite up to our agreement, you know. It was to be given to me and I was to return it. Instead of that I had to make a wild-goose chase out into the country."
"Ah," said Boroday, "into the country."

The chief, who was accustomed to reading faces watched Boroday closely. But if there was a tightening about the Russian's eyes it was very faint.
"You know blamed well," said the chief peevishly, "just where I had to go to get that thing. And you know blamed well also that on Sunday afternoon I always play poker. It was—well, inconsiderate to say the least."

Boroday smiled.
"I am exceedingly sorry that you were put to any trouble about it," he said. "But as you may understand, I have not yet seen my friends, and of course—"

He shrugged his shoulders. The chief was skeptical of his ignorance nevertheless. He humored what he chose to consider Boroday's whim. First he gave him the note which he had received by special delivery the day before. Quick as he was, the Russian could not quite conceal his astonishment.

"In the same box?" said the chief. "Somebody with a sense of humor had this—or—assistant you speak of? That is rather and was there—much money?"

"Twenty-eight thousand dollars," said the chief, and put his cigar back in his mouth. There is a story behind it, Boroday, and it's that story I am going to get. I'm warning you because you've played pretty square with me. I needed that pearl in my bust case."

Boroday rose.
"All right, chief," he said. "I am sorry about young Ward. I hope he was killed."
"He wasn't killed," replied the chief. "And I haven't said his name was Ward. If you haven't had your breakfast yet we might breakfast together. I overslept and haven't had time for anything."

Ward came back to consciousness in the great four-poster bedstead in which old Hilary Kingston had lain in state. He felt very little pain and no curiosity at all as to his surroundings, only an overwhelming loneliness and a feeling of life something—something that mattered very much had gone out of existence. He could not remember what it was.

There was a uniformed nurse by the bed. He had a curious antipathy to asking her anything. He had made a promise of secrecy to someone—about what?

Toward evening he had managed to evolve out of his revolving consciousness some faint memory of what had happened to him. He remembered that he was walking down a hill and that he had fallen forward. For quite a half hour late in the afternoon, he struggled to remember why he had gone down the hill.

Then he got it. He had been up at the hall to see Hilary. It was Hilary who had gone out of his life. Hilary! Hilary!

He slept very little during the night, and as his fever rose he called the nurse. Hilary, and begged her frantically to tell him that something was not true.

"Of course it is not true," said the nurse, who was accustomed to being called various things.
"You did not mean it at all?" He eyed her wistfully. The nurse was large and plain, with a wide, flat face.

"You, with the eyes of a saint," said poor Ward. "To try to tell me that you are wicked. I see that it is impossible. I think I can sleep now."

The nurse put her hand, which was large and ill-shaped but very light and tender on his head. And so he went to sleep.

When he was quite settled the nurse went out into the hall where Hilary was sitting on a straight chair. She had sat there almost all of the time since Ward was carried up the night before.

"He is sound asleep," she said smiling. "I think I am someone named Hilary," and he calls me that. As my own name is Sarah, it's rather pleasant."

Ward had been shot on Sunday night. By the following Wednesday he was out of danger.

On that same Wednesday the rector of Saint Jude's brought himself and his rheumatism back to his parish.

For three days Hilary had hardly slept or eaten. Never once had she been in Ward's room, but always, day and night, she was just outside. When on that Wednesday evening the doctor said Ward would live, she went down once more into her garden.

Many times during those three days Hilary tried to pray to Ward's God and found herself voiceless and inarticulate. But now, out of the depths of her great relief, came the first prayer of her life. She stood waist-deep among her phlox and larkspur.

"I thank thee," she said. "I thank thee."
Nothing had been heard of Hilary. The assault on the assistant rector of Saint Jude's had been of a line with the other mysterious happenings around the village. The little town was hazy-ridden with fear. Hilary was hazy-ridden with fear. Hilary was hazy-ridden with fear. Hilary was hazy-ridden with fear.

The problem of her future began to obsess her. It was plainly impossible to stay on here—not that she feared exposure; she was quite past fear—but the thought of going on with her life was intolerable. To meet Ward to see again the room and looking in his eyes more than all, to continue to deserve them—those were the things that to Hilary seemed worse than death itself.

All the philosophy that old Hilary had taught her failed her now. The revolt of the individual against laws made for the masses—what had it brought her but isolation and grief? Of what use was revolt? All must go through the mills of the gods. She knew that now. There were no exceptions. And something else she had learned: that if one is to live through great crises one must have a higher power to turn to for help. She had felt it vaguely at the time of her father's death. Sitting outside Ward's door she had known it. Every breath had been a prayer to something she knew not what, to save him.

"I thank thee," she said again.
The phlox and larkspur quivered about her as if under the touch of a gentle hand.

Boroday had been free for three days, but beyond a telephone message announcing his release she had heard nothing of him. Over the wire he had advised extreme caution. She judged from that that things were not going well.

She knew that Hilary's reckless crime would demand a scapegoat. There

GOVERNMENT SAYS THEY MAINTAINED COMMUNICATION WITH OUR ENEMIES

Ferdinand Henrich Adam, a young German, was arrested in New York while no charge has been made against him. His detention is regarded as highly important. In his room was found the photograph of a German army captain, his father, he explained. Adam said that he was rejected by the army examiners. He left Germany in February, 1915, and shipped for Mexico from a Spanish port. The vessel was held up by a British cruiser and Adam was interned at Halifax seven months. When released he came to the United States. He told the police he made several trips to Mexico.

Herman Trecker, forty-one years old of Brooklyn, an electrical engineer, was arrested and charged with violating the federal postal laws. The three men shown in the picture were held in heavy bail on a charge of conspiring to send mail to Europe through other than the authorized channels. They are from left to right: Harry F. Perissi, thirty-two of Far Rockaway, whose bail was made $50,000; Irving Bonaparte, thirty-four of 954 Tux street, Bronx, bail $50,000; and Axel B. Melchar, thirty-two of 161 East 121 street, bail $25,000. Perissi and Bonaparte are employees of the Algonquin Hotel, Manhattan. Melchar keeps a saloon near the water front in Brooklyn.

The government alleges that they sent mail matter to and from Germany by having it carried to Norway by men of the crews of the Norwegian American line, steamships Bergensfjord and Kristianiafjord. Mails from Germany were brought here on mailed regulars, and mail from South America and Mexico was sent here through the regular channels and turned over to the crews of the two ships.

Adam is employed by I. E. Fruman, a dealer in cartoons at 52 Greenwich street, as a business relationship existed between him and Perissi and Bonaparte. It is said Adam was employed to assemble and pack wireless equipment sent to Mexico. The parts were obtained from different manufacturers.

"I Shall Tell My Confessors."

charge of this little affair. Bryant is senior warden, it seems, in this church. It was clever.

Boroday passed the letter back to him.
"I shall tell my confessors. It is quite original."

The chief was smoking a large cigar. Unlike the police chief of Federal and the district, he did not speak around the cigar, but carefully removed it, not out of respect to his visitor, but out of deference to a good cigar. Now he leaned toward Boroday.

"Either," he said slowly, "it was clever, or it was necessary."
But the Russian had himself well in hand. He only smiled.

"It has occurred to me," the chief went on, "that that little town was built pretty busy lately. There was that matter of the country club, you know, and last Thursday night the parish house burned down."

"Yes," said Boroday, politely.
"And now something else has happened and— Suddenly the chief bent his desk with his fist—"I am pretty sick of it."

Under perfect control as he was at critical moments, the Russian's hands had a way of twitching. So now he flicked the ash from his cigarette and was politely interested.

"What happened last night?" he inquired.
"I think you know. If you don't, I'll tell you. Yesterday morning a tremendous collection was taken up at the church of Saint Jude's to build a new parish house in place of the one that burned down. The rector has been away; the assistant rector took charge of the money."

"I see."
"Of course you see. What I would like to know is why you fellows—"

Boroday spread out his hands in his foreign way.
"I fear you give me great credit. I do not deserve it."

"Why you fellows," the chief went on resolutely, "waited to do this job until the rector, who is old and infirm, had gone away and left a husky young assistant in his place. And that is all I want to know!"

"In any way that I can assist you—"

"What the devil do you mean," yelled the chief, "by shooting a man down and then going away and leaving the money in his pockets? It's— it's crude—it's wasteful!"

The Russian's fingers twitched in spite of him. The chief saw it and smiled under his heavy mustache.

"Do you mean that somebody shot were bound to be arrested. All this Hilary knew quite well. It was in such an atmosphere that she had drawn her earliest breaths—the play of cunning against cunning, wit against wit.

She did not send for Boroday. She dared not. But because the intimacy between her and the middle-aged Russian had always been very close he seemed to feel her need. And so on that Wednesday night an hour or so after midnight, he came.

Old Henriette came down and tapped softly at Hilary's door.
"Boroday," she whispered. "He has rung from the arbor."

That was one of old Hilary's devices, a hidden wire from the arbor to the house. It prevented collusion. Unless otherwise summoned, no member of his band ever came directly to the house.

Hilary went out and found him there. He bent over her hand and kissed it as was his custom, and then realizing that she was crying, he held out his arms and she went into them.

Very tender was the Russian with her that night, very fatherly. He put her into one of the arbor seats and sat down beside her.

"Now tell me," he commanded, "everything from the start. It was Walter, I know. But why?"

When she did not speak the Russian nodded.
"Jealousy of course but what mad ones!"

There in the arbor with her hand between two of his Hilary sobbed out the story of the pearl and her attempt to return it. Hilary's throat against Ward's evening visit, and the scene between them, and last of all the shot that had nearly ended everything in this world for Ward and for her. Boroday listened quietly, better than old Hilary ever could be understood. He had been reared on an ancient faith.

"He is recovering?"
"Yes."
"And he cares for you of course?"
"No. I think, perhaps, before he knew—"

"Dah!" said the Russian and rose. What sort of love is that which changes? I have seen the man. If he cared at all he still cares."

The Meaning of Good Will

BECAUSE good will is the direct result of service rendered, no investment firm can grow unless it can show a corresponding increase in good will. Growth of an investment business and growth of good will are practically synonymous. Then, does it not speak well for the quality of our service, that our business is constantly increasing.
